

100-year-old independent Lancashire firms

If you would like to contact us about any 100+ year old independently owned Lancashire companies that could be added to this list, please email Insight@lancashire.gov.uk

Introduction

"In the future as in the past we shall do our best to continue, in spite of the difficult period we are all passing through, to give an unrivalled service."

Part of a 1951 advert for one of the long-established independent Lancashire firms that has traded through two world wars, the 1930s depression, the post war austerity years and today continues to exist as one of the 100+ year old independent Lancashire businesses listed in this article. The type of 'Vision' statement that represented an attitude that was appropriate for the time; an honest approach that was good enough to ensure many years of profitable trading, and one that may have seemed out-dated during the prosperous years that followed, but is now very fitting as a #hashtag for the current crisis.

The overall aim of this article is to highlight as many as possible of the large number of independent and predominantly family-owned Lancashire companies that have been trading for over 100 years.

The wide range old independent Lancashire firms

Lancashire residents are able to purchase a wide variety of products and services from independent local firms that are over 100 years old. In the county it is possible to save or take out a mortgage, sell a house and employ a removals firm, shop in large modern foodstore, book a holiday and be taken to the airport, have a glass of beer, purchase a range of locally-made food products, buy furniture, hardware, jewellery etc., stay in a hotel, or have a day out at a major Theme Park, and on each occasion use a Lancashire business that is over 100 years old.

Lancashire has a solicitors firm that claims to be the oldest family firm of solicitors in which the original founding family has maintained its involvement throughout the company's history.

Britain's last Temperance Bar is still trading in the county, whilst in contrast Lancashire has a wine merchants business that is considered by many experts across the country to be an absolute gem. You can even have a website designed by a Lancashire company that is well over 100 years old.

Mention must be made of a Lancashire soap manufacturer that was founded in Belarus in the 19th Century. The company managed to survive two forced moves as a result of the Russian Revolution and the need to leave Berlin in 1937 before finally settling in Chorley in 1938.

Even in today's fast moving commercial environment, there is plenty of room for well-managed local companies that know how to satisfy their customers and which have amassed a large amount of what accountants officially term as 'goodwill'.

Many of these companies do not operate in safe business segments where barriers to market entry for new firms are high and competition is limited, but have managed to carve their own particular niches in some of the most competitive business sectors around.

Together these Lancashire firms provide employment for thousands of people in Lancashire, and together have products and reputations that are well-known beyond the county. This article celebrates their long-standing success and continued independence.

Criteria for Inclusion

The following represents a list of criteria that ideally need to be satisfied in full for inclusion in this article.

1. the company's head office is in the 14-authority Lancashire area;
2. the company is independent and not owned by a larger commercial organisation;
3. the company offers a product or service to the public or other businesses;
4. the company has an uninterrupted trading history in excess of 100 years that does not include any period in public ownership (e.g., former local authority bus companies) or any other form of non-fully commercial status;
5. the company maintains an active website that hopefully includes historical details, and which confirms its continued existence as an independent entity.

Criterion number two presents the most difficulty and some of the companies may be run by individuals who have business interests in other firms, but the essence is that they are not run by larger trading companies. For this reason SurrIDGE Sport in Burnley, which can trace its history back to 1867 but is now one of three trading brands of the SDL Group formed in 1977, is not included. Applying this particular criterion does highlight a number of difficult grey areas. Other firms have crept in to the main list when perhaps they should not have been included. A company website may imply a firm is independent, but at a later date the website of their parent company may come to light and a different picture is presented.

Firms that have been through financial difficulties, but have continued to trade pose a particular problem. Should the fact that Roach Bridge Tissues being forced to enter administration in 2000 detract from the fact that it has a trading history that began in 1875, and is still run by a family firm? It is a fine line on occasion between including or excluding a company from the main list, and whilst this firm does not have a main entry, some in similar circumstances have been included.

The final criterion has not been applied in all cases, but websites easily allow facts to be verified and there is a very strong preference for including companies with their own sites. There is not enough time to undertake in-depth academic research to publish this list of firms therefore there has to be a large amount of reliance on easily accessible published data from the businesses themselves.

There are a number of other Lancashire firms that probably could be included in this list, but without websites, the limited amount of information available on their age and ownership status is time-consuming to verify therefore they have at present been withheld from the list. Even with this relatively cautious approach to including companies, there is still a chance that errors have arisen and these will be corrected as they come to light.

There are business areas such as semi and professional football clubs, other sport-related clubs and societies, trade associations etc., which have been in existence for over a century. It is difficult to know exactly where to draw the boundary for what to include and exclude. In general terms the emphasis has been given to include businesses that operate in what would be considered as a normal commercial environment.

Blackhurst, Swainson, Goodier

Solicitors

Preston Office

9 Cannon Street

Preston

PR1 3QD

Website www.bsglaw.co.uk

Established 1720

The oldest independent Lancashire company so far identified, the company has a large number of experienced lawyers specialising in conveyancing, personal injury, family law and commercial work.

The present firm was formed as a result of the merger of two firms of solicitors Blackhurst Swainson and Oswald Goodier & Co. in January 2005. Prior to this event, Blackhurst Swainson had been established for over 285 years and Oswald Goodier & Co. for over 105 years.

Although steeped in history and ever mindful of the need to maintain solid traditional standards, the firm claims to have a modern approach to the practice of law.

Woodcocks, Haworth and Nuttall

West View

Princess Street

Haslingden

Rosendale

BB4 6NW

Website www.whnsolicitors.co.uk

Established 1791

Woodcock and Sons has been established for over 200 years and their website claims that it was the oldest family firm of solicitors in which the original founding family has maintained its involvement throughout the whole of its history.

The firm is an amalgam of two firms each originally founded by the Woodcock family, another family firm set up at Blackburn in 1878 by the Haworth Brothers and an Accrington Solicitors called George Nuttall who joined the Haworth firm in 1931. The oldest branch actually was started by Samuel Woodcock in Bury, whilst the nephew of the original founder began to practice as a solicitor in Haslingden in 1821. It was the Haslingden firm that later became known as Woodcock and Sons. Woodcocks merged with Haworth and Nuttall in 2012.

Bury is outside the present administrative local authority area of Lancashire, but since the Haslingden branch (inside Lancashire) gave the name to the present company, it has been decided to include it in the list of old Lancashire firms.

The business has seven branches of which six are within the Lancashire administrative area.

Southerns Solicitors

Mackenzie House
66/68 Bank Parade
Burnley
BB11 1UB

Website www.southernslaw.co.uk

Established 1792

The website states that it is one of the longest established firms of solicitors in north east Lancashire and has offices in Burnley, Nelson and Colne. The origins of the firm can be traced back to the formation of a legal practice by one Lawrence Shaw in Burnley. After a number of changes of name the firm has practised under the name of Southerns since 1999.

Southerns is a general firm of solicitors and the firm aspires to embrace new methods of legal practice and technology in order to offer all its clients a first class service.

James Baxter & Son

Thornton Road
Morecambe
LA4 5PB

Website www.baxterspottedshrimps.co.uk

Established 1799

Bob Baxter's family has been potting shrimps for 200 years. Whereas the family once ran their own boats, had a wet fish shop and employed a large staff, the owner now buys his Morecambe Bay shrimps, though they are still processed in the same time-honoured way.

The county council is grateful to the company for including a link to this list of old firms on their website.

Naphthens Solicitors

7 Winckley Square
Preston
PR1 3JD

Website www.naphthens.co.uk

Established 1800

Napthens has a proud heritage stretching back over two centuries, and today offers a broader range of services and represents a greater variety of clients than ever before.

One of the oldest and largest solicitors in Lancashire, the firm offers a range of services to meet the needs of both business and private clients and is structured into specialised departments, which aim to provide a fast, accurate service on a range of legal issues. The company considers that its enduring success is largely attributable to its emphasis on delivering a consistently customer-focused approach. It strives to continue to embody traditional professional values, whilst embracing the best of modern business practices.

From 1st November 2006, Napthens merged with Roscoes, a former very old established firm of solicitors, to create a larger commercial outfit with its headquarters in Preston. The combined firm is known as Napthens and, with branch offices in Blackburn, Bamber Bridge and Longridge, it covers a catchment area encompassing central, east and south Lancashire and the Ribble Valley. The combination of the firms is intended to create a firm large enough to accommodate all clients' needs, without them having to use Manchester or Liverpool firms.

Mears H (Furnishers) Ltd

The Oaks Business Park
Longridge Road
Ribbleton
Preston
PR2 5BQ

Website www.mearscarpets.co.uk/

Established 1802

The company website states that the business is now under the control of the sixth generation of the Mears family. Originally brush manufacturers and wholesale and retail hardware merchants, the company soon added other ranges including toys, carpets and house furnishings. After a fire in 1984 that severely damaged their town centre premises, the company carried on trading from their warehouse and started to specialise solely in carpets and floor coverings. In 1999 they moved to their present site on the Longridge road close to junction 31A of the M6.

Daniel Thwaites PLC

New Thwaites Brewery
Myerscough Road
Mellor Brook
BB2 7LB

Website www.thwaites.co.uk

Established 1807

The brewery industry has seen enormous change over the past few decades, but up and down the country there are still small- and medium-sized locally run businesses that have long and distinguished trading histories.

Daniel Thwaites PLC is one of the oldest Lancashire firms, being founded in 1807 and incorporated in 1897. It remains an independent family-controlled business operating from its new brewery site at Mellor Brook, some miles from the original brewery in the centre of Blackburn.

The principal activities of the brewery division used to be brewing, canning, bottling, wholesaling and retailing of beers, wines and spirits. Most of the well-known brands were sold to Marston's in 2015 but a selection of traditional beers are still brewed at the new brewery. It operates over 200 tied houses and a range of hotels.

Dickinson Parker Hill

22 Derby Street
Ormskirk
L39 2BZ

Website www.dphlaw.co.uk

Established c. 1810

The firm considers that it is probably one of the oldest firms of solicitors in the area and can trace its origins back to the early 1800s. The association with the founding family of the firm lasted until 1999 when the great, great grandson of the original Mr Hill retired.

The firms asserts that it offers a wide and extremely comprehensive range of legal services, including domestic and commercial conveyancing, wills, probate, accident work and family work.

Oglethorpe Sturton & Gillibrand

Lancaster Office
16 Castle Park
Lancaster
LA1 1YG

Website www.osg.co.uk

Established 1810

The website confirms that the firm has been in existence for over 150 years but Lancaster City Council kindly provided the date of establishment of 1810.

The firm of Oglethorpe Sturton & Gillibrand has a long tradition of satisfying generations of clients, while striving to move with the times and keep ahead of the competition by providing expertise and professionalism.

RK Timber Engineering

Wigan Lane
Duxbury
Chorley
PR7 4BU

Website www.pasquill.co.uk/design-centres/chorley/

Established 1814

The former website stated that the company has been established since 1814 and is one of the UK's largest manufacturers and suppliers of timber engineered products for the construction industry.

Unfortunately, the website does not offer further information about the heritage of the company nor does it clarify the ownership of the firm. In the absence of any contradictory data however, it is assumed that the company is entitled to an entry as an independent Lancashire firm. Additionally, the firm merged with Pasquill in 2009 throwing the longevity of the firm into further doubt.

S Carr & Son

High Street
Garstang
PR3 1FA

Website www.carrsjewellers.co.uk

Established 1820

The logo in the top left hand corner of the website is the source of the establishment date. S Carr & Son is a family jewellers with a wide selection of jewellery in gold, silver and platinum, along with diamond rings and gem set rings and jewellery.

The company has an extensive collection of wedding rings, watches, quality giftware and are trophy-makers and engravers. With hand making jewellery on the premises we are able to create your own unique piece of jewellery.

Askam Construction Ltd

3 Hampson Lane
Hampson
Lancaster
LA2 0HY

Website www.askam.co.uk

Established 1831

The present-day company was only established in 1986, but is included in this list of established firms because in 2001 it acquired the old Lancaster firm of J Parkinson & Sons (Contracting) Ltd. Therefore there is a continuous trading history that can be traced well back into the 19th century.

Askam Construction is a civil engineering, industrial and commercial building company that specialises in housing and county council projects.

ET Birtwistle & Sons Ltd

29 Queen Street
Great Harwood
BB6 7SA

No website

Established 1832

In 1832 ET Birtwistle & Sons was started by Daniel Birtwistle in premises in Club Street, Great Harwood. The business was passed to his nephew Edward Thomas whose four sons, Walter, James, Thomas and Hartley all worked for the funeral directors firm, which became a limited company in 1936. The business then passed to Hartley's son Edward and his son-in-law Joseph.

In 1962 the congregational church in Queen Street was purchased and converted into a chapel of rest.

Brierley, Collier & Hartley (BCH)

Spring Place

Millfold

Whitworth

OL12 8DN

Website bchltd.com/our-history/

Established 1835

This company is now part of the larger Coates Engineering Group, but in 2016 the website reverted back to the BCH name, itself a merger of 3 companies founded by entrepreneurs in the 19th Century, the earliest of which under Luke Collier had its origins in 1835. BCH was the first company to produce liquorice presses and the website asserts the company is still the world leader today.

The acquisition of this firm in 1993 led to the establishment of the Coates Engineering Group. Whether a firm should be included because of the purchase of an older company can be difficult to judge. The fact that the heritage and present-day operation of BCH receives such a high profile on the company website leads to their inclusion.

The company has a diverse range of businesses that cover three main areas: mechanical engineering, automation and food science. In 2000, the Coates Engineering Group invested in a state-of-the-art Innovation Centre. The centre has provided the opportunity to demonstrate the company's success in integrating these three pillars of process knowledge and how this process knowledge is applied in five specialised areas, i.e. liquorice, marshmallow, caramel, jam and marmalade, and chilled and ready-made meals.

J Atkinson & Co. Ltd

Established 1837

The company was originally established as the Grasshopper Tea Warehouse and has occupied these premises on China Street since 1901. It has been supplying tea and coffee to the citizens of Lancaster since its inception.

According to their website, five generations of continuous trading in the city have resulted in a marvellous collection of tea and coffee artefacts, such as tea canisters from the 1820s, an original spice drawer-run complete with uranium glass knobs, and in the window the famous small roaster dating from just after the Second World War that still wafts its delicious aroma out into the streets of Lancaster today.

Everything from scoops to scales have been lovingly mended and cared for over the years and are still very much in use on a daily basis.

Samuel Cooke & Co. Ltd

Wyre Street Oil Depot

Padiham

Burnley

BB12 8DF

Website www.cooke.co.uk

Established 1845

The Samuel Cooke group of companies is one of the largest independent fuels, fuelcards, lubricants and energy suppliers in the UK. The current product portfolio encompasses fuel cards, fuels (road, industrial, marine), home heating oil, lubricants and greases (automotive, industrial, metalworking and food safe), process oils and construction lubricants.

The Samuel Cooke group of companies is determined to remain a privately owned entrepreneurial independent group, and its mission is to be the best in its chosen fields of operation. This will be achieved through the application of consistent values, customer focus and determination across all disciplines.

The Samuel Cooke Group has been in existence since 1845, when the Burnley based Wholesale Chemists Richard and James Thomas expanded their business to blend lubricating oils for the Lancashire weaving industry. Samuel Cooke joined the oil business established by the Thomas brothers and in 1881 took over the business and changed the name of the company. Family members ran the business for many years, but over time control passed to other senior individuals involved with the company.

Website www.booths.co.uk

Established 1846

Founded in 1846, the company is still owned by the Booth family. It opened its first shop in Blackpool, and nowadays has more than 25 modern food stores across Lancashire, Cumbria and beyond. It continues to abide by its long-standing philosophy to "sell the best goods available, in attractive stores, staffed with first class assistants", and also specialises in offering locally-sourced products.

According to the firm, at least 25% of the products in Booths at any one time are locally produced. 100% of the company's fresh meat comes from Lancashire, Yorkshire, Cumbria and Cheshire and the company is also strong in local fresh fruit and vegetables.

An efficient company making a success in a sector that contains such big rivals and has been around for so long cannot have avoided coming to the notice of its major competitors. The company has never accepted any takeover approaches and its continued survival is due to the strong family tradition and the overriding passion to continue with that tradition.

White Lund Industrial Estate

Morecambe

LA3 3AY

Website www.j-c-althams.com

Established 1856

Established in 1856 by local farmer Thomas Altham who opened a butcher's shop in Morecambe. His son's widow Mrs JC Altham took over the business and opened three more shops with her two sons, Thomas and Robert.

In 1975, the running of the farming and butchery business was taken over by one of the present directors, the great-grandson of the founder. The company, seeing a decline in retail trade, expanded further into the catering sector, moving further afield to service hotels in the Lake District and surrounding areas.

The development of the catering business was so successful that the company moved the butchery business to larger premises on White Lund Industrial Estate.

As a result of being a specialist supplier to the catering trade of the north's leading supplier of quality meat, game, poultry etc., the company's profile among the general Lancashire public is somewhat lower than other firms that sell direct to the public.

Established 1859

Gillibrand was originally established by Mr J Gillibrand, who started building horse-drawn carts in a small workshop very close to where the business is currently located. The firm had its own wheelwrights shop and blacksmiths forge. As more sophisticated modes of transport developed the business adapted accordingly and nowadays undertakes the repair of motor vehicles as well as repairing and painting of large commercial vehicles. It is a classic example of a business that has moved with the times and adapted to the demands of the Repair Industry and its customer's needs.

In the early part of the 1950s the business was acquired from the Gillibrand family by Thomas Ellis, who had originally worked for the company as an apprentice in the 1920s.

The ongoing success of the business was reflected in the expansion of the workshop to accommodate the new car repair business and the building. There were a number of extensions carried out during the 1960s and 1970s, which provided the 20,000 square feet of workshop space still used today. The business now trades as Fix Auto Blackburn.

WS Rothband & Co. Ltd

4-6 Knowsley Road

Haslingden

Rosendale

BB4 4RX

Website www.rothband.com

Established 1860

The website states that the firm is a family business and that it may be a few years older than the stated dated of establishment. The product range has undergone significant developments over the years with the emphasis being in the field of health care. The company website list the wide range of items available, but it is not clear whether all or some are manufactured in-house or if the business is primarily a wholesaler. The assumption has been made that the firm should be classified in the latter category.

First established by the company's namesake in Manchester, the firm initially manufactured small makeup/sponge bags from waterproof cloth. The business grew and diversified into other rubber products (sheets, aprons, enema bags, "Gentlemen's preventives" etc.), medical glassware and surgical items.

Rubber sheeting for bed protection was the mainstay of the business by the turn of the century and continued to be a major line until the 1950s.

It was however around 1910 that a relative introduced the firm to lead rubber for use as an "X-RAY CLOTH". Other developments since have seen the introduction of leaded gloves, double-sided aprons, shoulder fastenings, coat-style aprons for all-round protection, closed-side aprons and theatre aprons.

The X-ray side of the business continued to expand, which led to the move to larger premises in Rossendale.

In 1994, the company acquired Duffield Medical, which enabled the firm to expand into physiotherapy sales and led to a new range of variable-height couches suitable for echo-cardiography, ultrasound and outpatient use.

In 1998, the company commenced manufacture of fixed lead screens together with the supply of Pb glass and perspex, so they can now cater for most X-ray protective needs.

Morecambe
LA4 4BU

Website www.briggsshoes.co.uk

Established 1865

The website confirms that the origins of the firm actually predate 1865, but this was the year when Thomas Briggs joined the staff of John Gorrill as an apprentice shoemaker. Gorrill's shoes of Penny Street Lancaster had been established for some years and on his retirement in 1865 Mr Gorrill sold his business to Thomas Briggs. The business flourished and in more recent times expanded throughout the North West opening as "K Shoemines" in Morecambe on Regent Road in the early 1980's. A move to much larger premises saw the business relocate to its current home on Marine Road West.

The Briggs Business was sold to a management buyout in 2004 but was bought back by the Powney family in 2009. Mr Powney (Great, Great Grandson of Thomas Briggs) has re-established the Clarks Brand, opening a large Children's department in July 2009 providing a full measuring and fitting service to the children of Morecambe once more.

Further shopfitting in 2010 saw the opening of a dedicated Men's and Ladies Clarks Department. The Morecambe store is the largest of the five operated by the family.

Established 1865

Perhaps more than any other long-established Lancashire firm, Lofthouse of Fleetwood has managed to carve out a distinct market niche with a well-known product.

The company makes the famous Fisherman's Friend Lozenges. It was founded by James Lofthouse, a resident of Fleetwood who created an extremely strong liquid containing menthol and eucalyptus, which helped fishermen working in freezing conditions. To make it easier to transport, the liquid was made into small lozenges.

The company remains family owned and is still resident in Fleetwood where it is a significant local employer.

Moorhouse's

4 Moorhouse Street

Burnley

BB11 5EN

Website www.moorhouses.co.uk

Established 1865

William Moorhouse founded Moorhouse's in 1865, in premises not far from the present production site, on the opposite side of Accrington Road in Burnley. He produced mineral waters, which were sold in bottles and half-gallon jars. By 1870 the business was doing so well that William decided to build his own premises and relocated to the building that is today occupied by the company. By the early 20th century the company was producing hop bitters that were low in alcohol, less than 2% abv, and deemed to be "non-intoxicating liquors".

The company remained in the hands of the Moorhouse family until 1978 and then entered a short period of constant change of ownership. In 1982 a local businessman, Alan Hutchinson, bought the business and, with the introduction of Pendle Witches Brew, production grew steadily. Unfortunately Mr Hutchinson died quite suddenly in 1985 and Moorhouse's was faced with extinction. The company was saved by William Parkinson, who originated from Burnley, and who since then he has invested in a new brew plant in 1988 and a new warehouse/distribution depot in 1995.

According to the website, the company has six pubs and supplies beers to Free Trade outlets within a 50-mile radius of the brewery. It also enjoys national distribution through a comprehensive wholesale network including the local supermarket chain Booths.

John Spencer (Textiles) Ltd

Ashfield Mill

Active Way

Burnley

BB11 1BS

Website www.johnspencer.com

Established 1871

Although the company ceased trading in the early 1970s, the replacement business was formed by original family members and many workers from the former business so the fourth criterion - an uninterrupted 100-year trading history - has been in this case liberally interpreted.

In 1871 John Spencer started in business with his son John and John's brother at Waterloo shed on Trafalgar Street with 110 looms. The business grew substantially over the years and at one stage had over 2,000 looms, but along with the rest of the textile industry in the County ran into hard times. The firm was wound up in 1971, but family interest was maintained and reflected in the name of the new company John Spencer (Textiles) Ltd.

The decision was made that the new business would concentrate on a wide range of fabrics but not more than 10% of any one particular type of cloth, thereby avoiding an over reliance on a small number of large buyers who were increasingly sourcing their products from cheaper options abroad.

In 1991 a major fire engulfed the mill and everything was destroyed except one weaving shed. This became the core centre for production over the next few months, but with the money received from the insurers a modern £million mill has been developed.

Six generations of the family have experience in weaving the finest quality fabrics from a huge variety of different fibres. The company proudly boasts that, "If it can be woven, then we can probably weave it!"

The business produces woven fabrics for industry, furnishing, fashion, shirting, suiting, military, protective clothing, workwear, laminating, coating, filtration and a wide range of other end-uses.

James Proctor came upon the idea for stoking boilers automatically whilst working as an engineer for a local company. His experiments resulted in 1875 in the first patent for his invention, which he named 'Proctor's Mechanical Stoker'. Almost 50 more patents were taken out for improvements, modifications and alterations before the company was registered as James Proctor Ltd in 1902.

In subsequent years coal and ash handling equipment were added to the product portfolio along with new designs for more automated stoking systems which resulted in sales of equipment to the far corners of the world and a reputation as a world leader in coal burning technology.

Successive generations of the Proctor family have steered the company over the decades with new designs and innovative products serving the demands of a changing world. Today, this philosophy of invention and innovation continues apace with the current emphasis on energy efficiency and reducing greenhouse gas emissions.

James Proctor Ltd has a commitment to developing biomass and renewable energy combustion systems. By burning biomass the CO₂ emitted is equal to the CO₂ originally taken in by the plant to grow. But the systems must be able to burn the fuel in its raw form, which often includes a high moisture content in the fuel.

The company has developed an efficient, cost-effective boiler package which enables high moisture content biomass to be utilised as a low cost, environmentally friendly fuel. This can often be a waste biomass that is currently landfilled, leading to huge cost savings for the customer if used as a fuel both in terms of fuel costs and taxation from landfill and carbon taxes, which must only rise in the future.

Mere Brow Smithy (Ironworkers)

29 The Gravel
Mere Brow
Preston
PR4 6JX

Website www.merebrowsmithy.com

Established 1875

The origins of the firm were in two separately run smithy and wheelwright businesses located in adjoining buildings. They merged in the early 1900s, and were owned by local man Thomas Moss, then by his sons Sam and John who took over in 1950. The two brothers were skilled craftsmen and much in demand in a largely agricultural area of heavy horses which needed shoeing and even heavier machinery which needed mending.

By the late 1990s the smithy's function had changed with, ornamental metalwork being the mainstay of the business when brothers Tom and Danny Murphy took over in 2000. The business now specialises in fashionable and artistic metalwork for the home and garden.

Richard and co-Director John Grindley have overseen the company's recent growth which resulted in the expansion into larger premises in central Preston in 2004, however the company remains just a few hundred yards from where George Garratt first opened his premises.

The larger premises have enabled Garratts to invest further in additional technology and staff developing delivery of service and complexity of product to its clients.

Our relationships with insurance companies continue to flourish locally, nationally and now internationally opening up unique markets for the benefit of the expanding client base.

Garratts Insurance Brokers has always concentrated solely on the corporate and commercial insurance markets.

Henry Alty Ltd

Station Road
Hesketh Bank
Preston
PR4 6SS

Website www.altys.co.uk

Established 1877

The vast majority of websites for old established firms detail the history of the firm and emphasise their record of independent trading. The website for Henry Alty gives the establishment date for the firm and briefly mentions its long and distinguished history of which it is proud, but it does not confirm that it is still independently owned nor does it mention how the firm has developed over the years. The balance of opinion however appears to be that this is the case so it has been included.

The company's head office is in Hesketh Bank, whilst there are two other branches close by in Hoole and Burscough, and a further branch in Cheshire.

The company has two main sections of business: building and horticulture. The building side of the business has five sections supplying materials under the headings of heavy and lightside building materials, tool hire, timber products, and landscape and garden products. The firm's horticultural business covers products under the headings of growing media, fertilisers, crop production, pots and trays, baskets and planters, and sundries.

The company emphasises its determination to offer a first-class service to customers at a competitive price.

Website www.mrfitzpatricks.com

Established 1890

Fitzpatrick's Temperance Bar in Rawtenstall has been making soft drinks for more than 100 years. The shop is believed to be the last of the original temperance bars that were set up as alternatives to pubs in the 1890s.

The Fitzpatricks were a family of herbalists who emigrated from Ireland to Lancashire in the 1800s. They opened a chain of shops throughout Lancashire selling herbal remedies and gained popularity through the temperance movement. At their peak the Fitzpatricks owned a total of 24 shops.

The Rawtenstall shop has managed to survive through the dedicated support of the local community and the affection they have for both the shop and its drinks. The proud tradition is continued today by the new owners, with a new dream to make Fitzpatrick's cordial available to all. Their headquarters is now in Haslingden.

Mawdesley
L40 3SY

Website www.e-coffee.co.uk

Date of establishment 1891

The firm has its headquarters in Lancashire, though much of its heritage originates from outside the county.

This family business has been involved in the tea and coffee trade since the present owner's grandfather, who originated from North Wales, moved to Liverpool to work in the tea trade. The business originally targeted markets back in North Wales but slowly the port of Liverpool became the main area of business.

Famous shipping lines like Cunard, Blue Star Line, Elder Dempster and others were customers, along with the Navy and numerous ship stores and chandlers. From around 1960, the decline of the port and the advent of supermarkets meant that new markets had to be found

The growing catering trade became the biggest element of sales and the company moved into speciality tea and coffee shops in the 1980s. Shops were opened in Wigan, Chester, Manchester, Southport and London. Cedar Farm in Mawdesley is the main base for the company.

Website www.mooreandsmalley.co.uk

Established 1892

Moore & Smalley is one of the region's leading independent providers of accounting and business advisory services to corporate and private clients.

In 1869, William Francis Moore began practising as an accountant, opening an office at 9 Chapel Street Preston. After some years his two sons joined him and business grew. However, the growth proved problematic and the business was amicably wound up.

Mr Moore Sr. then offered a partnership to his chief clerk, Robert Edwin Smalley, who had been apprenticed to Mr Moore as an office boy in 1880. On 1 January 1892, the firm of Moore and Smalley was established.

The small practice founded by William Moore all those years ago had now grown into the largest Preston-based firm of Chartered Accountants.

Whether its services for growing businesses, business support, corporate finance, strategic consultancy, business advice, corporate financial planning, taxation services or financial planning and wealth management, Moore & Smalley aspire to exceed expectations in providing a first-class, cost-effective and dependable service.

Droyt Products Ltd

Progress Mill
Progress Street
Chorley
PR6 ORZ

Website www.droyt.com

Established 1893

An old Lancashire firm that has managed to survive some challenging experiences that would have proved overwhelming for most businesses.

The family firm was initially founded in Minsk, Belarus, in 1893 under the name of "The Victoria Fine Soap Works". After the Russian Revolution, the company was forced to move and settled in Berlin, in a factory building just off the Kurfürstendamm, at Joachim-

Friedrich-Straße 37. With a name change to Danico Glycerinseife Gesellschaft, the firm was based in Germany until 1937, when it was again forced to move. A new home was made in England, in a former yarn mill in Chorley.

Raw materials were scarce during the first few years after arriving in England, due to wartime rationing. The company survived on small allocations and made anything from tooth powder to cough medicine. Soap production did not start again in earnest until the late 1940s.

Nowadays, Droyt is an established private label and the company manufactures glycerine soaps, both solid and liquid, and is entering a new era of organic soap production.

The company remains a privately owned independent company and states that it uses the best quality vegetable or mineral ingredients to make a soap which is aesthetically pleasing and very well regarded.

Established c. 1894

The company website states that the firm has over 125 years in the industry, but there is no confirmation of the actual date. It mentions that Carrington is the largest producer of workwear fabrics in the UK, producing over 55 million metres of fabric annually, and exporting to more than 80 countries worldwide. Textile production at the site can be traced back to the 1760s. It is adjacent to the Pincroft Dyeing and Printing works, and the two businesses appear to be very closely related

Pincroft Dyeing & Printing Co. Ltd

Market Street

Adlington

near Chorley

PR7 4HE

Website www.pincroft.com

Established c. 1894

The company website states that the firm has over a century of tradition, but there is no confirmation of the actual date. Pincroft Dyeing & Printing Co. Ltd has for the last 25 years specialised in the production of workwear fabrics and is said to be an acknowledged leader in this field. The factory is adjacent to the Carrington Textiles works, and there is a joint reception area, so the two companies appear to be very closely related.

In comparison to other websites there is not a wealth of information, but what clearly comes across is the pride the business has in emphasising its environmental credentials. The firm has invested heavily in state of the art machinery that has led to dramatic reductions in carbon dioxide emissions. The investment also allows Pincroft to recover energy from wastewater used during processing and from the hot exhaust air of the drying and finishing equipment.

Website ritherdon.co.uk/

Established 1895

The company website contains a page that charts the fascinating history of the firm from its foundation in Bolton by Percy Ritherdon. It was initially involved with electroplating and enamelling for the Edwardian bicycle boom, but the company also specialised in the precise fabrication of magic tricks. The web page charts the company's involvement in the First and Second World Wars and its subsequent work in providing products to the nuclear industry and electricity boards.

The company has been at its present site for many years and continues to invest in state of the art machinery. It nowadays specialises in manufacturing enclosures and control panel metalwork, particularly for the electricity distribution industry, but also numbers many other nationally recognised names among its customers.

The county council is grateful to Ben Ritherdon for his help in putting together these two short paragraphs, and for including a link to this list of long established Lancashire firms on the Ritherdon website.

Shirley's Ltd

24-26 Canterbury Street
Blackburn
BB2 2HP

Website www.shirleystwastepaper.com

Established 1900

The company specialises in recycling so does not fit exactly into any of the broad industrial and commercial sectors used to classify the firms in this article.

The company was founded in 1900, when Thomas Shirley inherited a house at 26 Canterbury Street with an adjoining small warehouse.

The website states that, with the advent of machinery together with the erosion of values of recyclable materials, survival has depended on bulk handling and specialisation.

The company now has a site of 4,000 sq.m. and can process well in excess of 2,000 tonnes of waste of paper and cardboard per week. As part of its continuing growth, and to meet customer requirements, the company also provides general waste services and plastic recycling.

The website confirms that it is a family business and that the Douglas Boatyard has been building and repairing boats since around 1900. It was originally established to build and repair timber fishing boats once used extensively on the Irish Sea. In recent years, the boatyard has specialised in building and repairing all types of boats for recreational use, from canal cruisers to ocean-going yachts.

Blackpool Pleasure Beach

Ocean Boulevard
Blackpool
FY4 1EZ

Website www.blackpoolpleasurebeach.com

Established 1900

William George Bean founded Pleasure Beach, Blackpool in 1896 and bought the forty two acre site on which the Pleasure Beach now stands. His vision was of an, 'American Style Amusement Park, the fundamental principle of which is to make adults feel like children again and to inspire gaiety of a primarily innocent character'.

Various rides, including the still popular Sir Hiram Maxim Flying Machines, were introduced to the area. The 1930s saw the introduction of many new rides, including The Rollercoaster, The Pleasure Beach Express, and the world-famous twin track coaster, The Grand National. After the war the Company continued to prosper. The '60s saw a resurgence of development projects and it was during this era that Britain's first commercial Monorail was built at the Pleasure Beach and new rides - The Monster, The Astro Swirl and the Log Flume were introduced.

Pleasure Beach, Blackpool has been consistently profitable and these profits have been re-invested in new rides and the development and upgrading of the Park. 1994 saw an investment of £12 million for the Pepsi Max Big One, at the time Europe's tallest and fastest rollercoaster.

The year 2000 saw the biggest investment to date of £15 million when Pleasure Beach, Blackpool opened, Valhalla, the world's biggest dark ride. Another Pleasure Beach first happened in Spring 2003 as The Big Blue Hotel opened its doors at the south end of the park offering luxury accommodation at an affordable price.

Over recent years the Pleasure Beach's Business strategy had moved away from launching a spectacular new ride every few years. The focus moved towards developing its own hotel capacity for short-break visitors and to invest in improved stage shows, to reduce the impact of bad weather and appeal to a wider audience including families. The announcement in 2006 that a new ride called 'Infusion' will open in 2007, and occupy the former Log Flume ride site, represents the emphasis focusing back towards investing in major new rides.

Blackpool has for a while been experiencing a cycle of long-term decline exacerbated by cheap flights to overseas resorts and alternative sources of entertainment. The Pleasure Beach continues to invest and work hard to prosper in a challenging economic environment.

Morris Quality Bakers

Baker Street

Coppull

Chorley

PR7 5UH

Website www.morrisqualitybakers.co.uk

Established 1912

The company serves clients on a daily basis from Cumbria in the north to Staffordshire in the south. It handles over 10,000 orders a week from clients ranging from small sandwich businesses to local authorities. Morris Quality Bakers offers a full range of bakery products from Morning Goods and Breads to speciality products like Chorley Cakes and Confectioneries.

The family business started in butchery, and in 1912 Walter Morris opened a butchers shop in Coppull. The shop thrived and was passed down to his son who continued the family business of supplying the Coppull area with the finest 'home-killed' meats, and in turn it was passed to his son Henry.

In the early 1970s Henry decided to process this meat himself making pasties, sausage rolls and hotpots. By 1975 Henry had increased his range of pies and started extending the shop; so Morris's Pies was born.

In the 1980s the business started to supply local pubs and by 1989 the company moved to larger premises in Coppull. With changes in the food market, and more demanding legislative controls for all high risk ingredients such as meat and dairy products, Henry decided that in 1995 Morris's of Coppull would focus on rolls and morning goods. Now called Morris's Quality Bakers, the company has over recent years won some major orders and since the start of the new millennium has needed to expand its premises in Coppull.

Website www.huntleys.co.uk

Established over 100 years

A firm that epitomises the difficulty in trying to pin down the age of a business in this sector. According to the company's website, the Owner and Managing Director of Huntleys, can trace his family history in farming in the locality back for an astonishing period of over 800 years, yet the history of the current business is unclear. This uncertainty would normally lead to the company being excluded, but this farming business has been added as a representative example of all farms in the area that can trace their lineage back for many generations.

It was not until 2001, that in order to supplement its existing arable and livestock farming, a 750 sq ft farm shop selling milk, home-made ice cream and meat to the general public was opened. Today, the main shop now boasts a restaurant, sells over 70 flavours of ice-cream, homemade cakes and more.

From picking up the 2005 East Lancashire Retailer of the Year award to being celebrated as one of Rick Stein's Food Heroes, Huntleys is proud to be investing in local produce and delivering a high quality and personable service.

Website www.jjoplc.com

Established over 100 years

The company website only has a limited amount of information about the firm and does not explicitly confirm that it is an independent business. Without any information to the contrary however, it is assumed that it maintains an independent status and therefore has been included in this list.

The website states that the firm was founded over 100 years ago and that nowadays it produces over 600 quality kitchens and bedrooms every week. This makes it the leading supplier to many of the best outlets within the industry.

The firm is a major local employer and operates from a three-quarter of a million square foot factory, where a skilled workforce uses the latest machine technology to produce their product range.

Like many other of the long-established firms in Lancashire, the company makes a point of specifying its sustainable business practices, stating that its principles demand only the use of timbers from managed forests and that all waste materials are recycled.
