Parent Cards

These cards have been specially created to help you support your child's speech, language and communication development at home. Your nursery or childminder has identified a specific area of the Wellcomm Toolkit that your child would benefit from and these activities are designed to build on that learning in fun, everyday ways.

Each card offers simple, practical ideas that fit easily into your daily routines, whether you're playing, chatting, reading, or exploring together. You don't need any special equipment or training, just your time, attention and a little creativity!

By using these cards regularly, you'll be helping your child grow in confidence and develop the skills they need to express themselves, understand others and thrive in their early years.

If you have any questions or would like more support, please speak to your child's key person or setting. They are here to help.

Let's get started and make learning language fun!

Guide for Practitioners

The Wellcomm Parent Cards are a valuable resource designed to help families support their child's speech, language and communication development at home. Each card links directly to a specific area of the Wellcomm Toolkit, allowing parents to reinforce the learning that is already happening in your setting.

These cards are simple, practical and easy to use. They offer everyday ideas that fit naturally into home routines, helping parents feel confident and involved in their child's progress.

As a practitioner, you can use these cards to:

- Share targeted support with families based on the section of Wellcomm their child has been signposted to.
- Encourage home learning that complements your setting's language-rich environment.
- Build strong partnerships with parents by giving them tools to actively support their child's development.

You might choose to:

- Print and hand out individual cards during parent meetings or reviews.
- Upload them to your digital platforms (e.g., nursery apps, websites, or parent portals) for easy access.
- Use them as part of your communication strategy to keep families informed and engaged.

By making these cards available, you're helping to create a consistent and supportive approach to early language development, at home and in your setting.

Thank you!
